A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boscbee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries
in medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition.
It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms.
Two billion bottles sold annually.
Boscbee's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now old in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will remove any ordinary cough. Price, 75c.

AMUSEMENTS.

Those who fail to see "Tennessee's Partner" at the Grand-to-morrow night,
will miss one of the best comedy-dramas
that has ever come to Paris. The play suggests rather than closely follows Bret Harte's exquisite story of the mining camp. It is bright and clean, not overdrawn and has a distinct vein of comedy which brightens it wonderfully. The characters are well balanced and each actor in his or her own way, appeals especially to the audience. This attraction has been a decided success in seasons
past and theatre-goers are assured of a strictly first-class production. Reserve your seats at Borland's this morning.
Prices 25 cents to 75 cents.

Some of the very best and strongest attractions before the public are underlined at the Opera House, in Lexington. Among them are Rogers Brothers, March 26;
Souza's Band, March 26; Julia Marlowe,
April 3; Joe Jefferson, April 7; Maude
Adams, April 10; J. K. Hackett, April 21
and Viola Allen, May 12.

PALMER'S NEW SCENIC PRODUCTION.

There are numerous pastoral plays of merit touring the country, but none
which equal that old play "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." It contains more real heart interest and moral teachings than
all the other pastoral dramas combined.
Henry Ward Beecher, the famous Brooklyn divine, after witnessing the Palmer
production said: "It is better than any sermon ever delivered from the pulpit."
His words have been endorsed by many thousands of people who have witnessed this excellent play. This season the Palmer production is larger and more complete than ever before. The scenic production is grander. The cast is a metropolitan one including Mr. Lew Sutherland, Mr. W. N. Hammett, Mr. James
Jackson, Mr. Harry Watrous, Miss Tala
Bennett, Miss Della Harrison, Miss Fray
Phillips and little Verna Marie, one of the greatest child artists whose portrayal
of Mary Morgan, the drunkard's daughter is considered the best piece of child acting ever seen on the stage. The appearance of Palmer's "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" at the Grand on Monday next will be awaited with interest. Common sense prices: 15, 25, 35 and 50 cents.

They went to Danville, and after a short stay there will return to Paris,
where they will make their future home.

Cancer Cured by Blood Balm—All Skin and Blood Diseases Cured.

Mrs. M. L. Adams, Fredonia, Ala.,

ly. Many doctors had given up her case as hopeless, hundreds of cases of cancer, eating sores, suppurating swell-

Balm. Among others, Mrs. B. M.
Guernsey, Warrior Stand, Ala. Her nose and lip were raw as beef, with offensive discharge from the eating sore.
Doctors advised cutting, but it failed.
Blood balm healed the sores, and Mrs.
Guernsey is as well as ever. Botanic

As a producer of dams Manbrino Patchen is without an equal. He sired the dams of Ateyone, Alcantara, Baron Wilkes, Guy Wilkes, Wilkes Boy, Pin-mors, Ralph Wilkes 2:06 1/2, and over 150 with records in 2:30 and better. Man-brino Patchen's sons sired the dams of Cresus, the world's champion trot-

PATCHEN WILTON is a coal black horse, and for beauty, grace and action he is without peer in Kentucky. With the rise of horse shows and road driving nowadays, the horse with plenty of good looks, action, soundness and speed, is the one that brings the fancy price. All of these virtues are combined in PATCHEN WILTON, and this is backed by the most fashionable breeding in the books. His sire is one of the greatest sons of George Wilkes, his dam a great producing daughter of Manbrino Patchen, his second dam a great race mare in her day and a producer.

"TO THE JEDGMINT DAY"

When things went wrong, grandfather—
he'd say:
"Well, the world rolls on to the Jedg mint
Day;
An' what should we sigh fer—an' why
should we care?
The reckonin's comin' sometime—somewhere!
Bear with the winter, an' dream o' the May;
The world rolls on to the Jedg mint
Day!"

When things went wrong, an' we knelt in dust
To thank the Lord for the poorest trust,
An' the old-time friends that we thought
we knowed
Had left us friendless along life's road,
It was always nothin' but this to say:
"The world rolls on to the Jedg mint
Day!"

So we stifled the sigh, an' tried for the song.
Knowin' God made the right, an' would reckon the wrong;
An' trouble seemed lighter, an' even the night
Had brist never dreamed of to make it bright.

We can bear, we can suffer along the world's way.
For "The world rolls on to the Jedg mint
Day!"

AT NO. 54.

"COME up to No. 54, Ellis street," James had written to me, "or wire us by what train to expect you,
and we will meet you."

James and Clara were settled at last, and I was expected to look them up. So in due time I got out of the train, and looked round vainly for James. How like the indifference of a brother that was! Trust a brother for failing to meet you. For a minute or two I thought of going to an hotel,
and giving him the slip altogether. It would serve him right.

I flung my bag into an open cab,
and flung myself after it.
"No. 54 Ellis street," I said sulkily to the driver. And in a moment the cab was jolting over the wretched cobblestones.

The rain was falling hard when the wheels finally grated against the curbstone, and the driver opened the door for me, and announced:
"Here you are, sir—No. 54!"

I saw the figures painted on the door, so I paid the driver, let him
go, and rang the bell.

After a while I rang the bell again,
and yet again, with no result. Then it occurred to me how strange it was
that there was no light in the house,
when they must have been expecting
me, too.

Another turn at the bell. This time there was some response. A woman, evidently a servant, came along the garden at the side of the adjoining house, and said:

"There ain't nobody at home.
They've gone to the op'ry. And it's the servant's night out."

Then she went back.

The rain was pouring. Judging by the distance I had come, I must be miles from an hotel. I must make a run for some shelter part of the house, and try to get into a drier place.

My run brought me to a little veranda at the side of the house, and there was another door.

I was seized with an inspiration. I took my home latchkey out of my pocket, and tried it in the lock. It fitted!

I opened the door and walked in,
and sat my bag down with a sigh of relief.

"Aha! James, my boy, you might have known your brother better than to try to look him out!" I said gleefully to myself. And then I struck a match which the wind blew out.

After I had spent several minutes striking more matches. I finally lit a tall lamp, and at the same moment
set fire to the shade. I extinguished
the fire by putting the shade on the floor and stamping on it repeatedly.
Then I left it where it had fallen. It would teach Clara a lesson, for a great frilled affair on a lamp is always exceedingly dangerous.

The high-pitched barking of a dog began to annoy me, and I went in search of it, lighting another lamp or two on the way. I passed through the hall, and into a bedroom on the other side, and there was the dog,
a wretched little pug.

I have always been a man of expedients. I chased the pug into a cupboard, and, after a brief, violent gymnastic exercise, succeeded in turning
a waste-basket over the little beast,
and then weighted the basket down
with a large lump of coal.

I shut the barking and howling little brute in the cupboard.

There was a neat little dressing-room adjoining. I peeped into it, and found several suits of James' clothes hanging along the wall. For the first time I remembered that my own clothes were damp, and I hastened to do just what James would have insisted on if he had been there—
I put on some dry clothes.

After that I wandered into the dining room, and was charmed to observe that the materials for a postscript supper had been thoughtfully
set on the table, and that there were places for three. Aha! So they were expecting me, then. But as I was ravenous I decided to eat my share
now, and not wait. Happy thought!
I ate a very generous meal.

Then I went back to the bedroom,
lighted one of James' cigars, stretched myself out in an easy-chair with my feet to the grate, where a warm fire

yet glowed, and smoked and dreamed.
I was not aroused until an agitated hand was trying to insert a key into the lock of the front door. I smiled at the surprise I was going to give James and Clara. Just then the hall door opened.

"Thunder!" remarked a voice. "I thought we turned all the lights out!"
I dropped back into the chair. The voice did not belong to James! I had never heard it before!

A wild panorama of things flashed before me. I dashed through a door
in front of me, locked it, and found myself in another bedroom, and there I was in a cul-de-sac. The only door of exit led into the hall. I paused,
and listened in agony.

"Oh, my poor darling little Fido!"
screamed the feminine voice, as the dog was discovered. "What an awful cruel monster he must have been!"

"Well, at least, Lillian, he didn't hurt the dog," said another feminine
voice, with a ripple of laughter in it.
"I think he deserves a good deal of sympathy for that, don't you, Will?"

I heard references to the police, and the jingling of an excited telephone bell, followed by calls for three or four men to be sent up from the station.

In that single moment I spent a whole long night looked up with the "drunks and disorderlies," and pictured James coming down in the morning and calling me a fool, while he was making arrangements for my release.

Never! I would die first! And I clutched at the collar of Will's suit,
and beat my brow with my fist, and groaned.

I heard the procession come along
the hall, and I knew what awaited them in the dining-room. I opened the door the merest crack, and peeped
out. The hall was clear. Now was my time.

With my best run I sped along the hall, and to the room into which I had first broken.

It was done. I was inside, and the door was shut behind me. And then
I fell up against the door and gasped.
I had missed the direction! There was only one other way in which I could make a confounded fool of myself that night, and now I had done
that. This was not the drawing-room at all, but a snowy bedroom, with a young lady standing in the middle of
it, looking startled at me!

She continued to look at me for some time. After a while she said:
"Is there anything more you would like to have? If you can think of anything, please don't hesitate to ask for it; but be quick, for the police will be here soon."

"I do beg you to believe that this is all an unfortunate mistake," I said.
"Will you believe me, on my honor
as a gentleman, when I tell you that I will explain it all some day, and that, if you will help me to escape
from this painful predicament, you will be glad when you know the truth?"

We heard Will and his wife in loud
discussion of the coolness of the burglar, while Will's wife cried hysterically:
"Where is Belle? I do wish she would stay with us! We are all going to be murdered before the police get here!"

The young lady pushed past me, and opened the door a little.
"Don't worry about me Lillian,"
she called brightly. "I don't care to see the police, so I shall shut myself
in."

Then she closed and locked the door, and turned to me again.

"I have almost told a lie for you,"
she whispered coldly. "Worse than that, I am going to help you out of my window. Once outside, you will have to take your chance."

I bowed my thanks, and was moving towards the window, when I remembered the bag and all it contained to identify me with the wearer of Will's suit. I told her about it and she smiled, and slipped out of the room
by another door. Presently she came with the bag, and there was a gleam
in her eyes as I profusely thanked her once more.

"We are under many obligations to you for not having set fire to the house," she said demurely.

We heard the heavy feet of the officers at the door, and their ring at
the bell, and then the young lady softly raised the window.

I sprang lightly to the ground. Her hand was lying on the window-sill,
and I leaned over and kissed it.

The window closed with emphasis.
I walked, bag in hand, to the pavement, and then I started up the street. At the further end of it I plunged into the arms of a man who was coming out of a cottage.

"Hang it! What are you racing about the streets like that for?" he roared. Then he flung himself at me,
and almost shook my arm off, shouting, with a grin of delight: "Dave,
you young rascal, where have you been?"

I dropped my bag, and sat down
upon it.

"James," I said sternly, "where do you live?"

"Why, here, at No. 34!" he said
cheerily. "Where have you been all this time? We went to the station to meet you, but were too late, and so we came back home, and have been waiting for you ever since, and awfully ineasy."

I had been feeling in my pocket
for his letter, and now I spread it out before him, under the light of the hall lamp.

"James," I said severely, "what number is that?"

"Why, that is No. 34," he said, with conviction. "Can't you read writing?"

"Do you call that 34?" I demanded,
with spirit.

"Great Scott! Dave," he replied,
there it is as plain as a pikestaff—3 and 4. Can anything be plainer than that?"

"And who lives at 54?" I asked in despair.

"Oh, that William Thompson; particular friend of mine; splendid fellow, too, and has a nice family. And,
by the way, I was telling them about you this morning. They've read your stories, and are anxious to meet you.
But why?"

"James," I said bitterly, "I wish you'd go to school and learn to write plainly."

The next time I entered the Thompson house I went in by the front door,
and James and Clara were with me.
I had returned Mr. Thompson's suit in an anonymous package, and had a vague hope that this was the end of it, and perhaps the young lady would not recognize me, as the light had been dim in the room. I had betrayed
no secrets to James; far from it.

The lovely face of Miss Belle Thompson gave no sign of recognition. This was better than I expected.
A warm glow went over me as I thought of it. Perhaps they would never know, after all.

But when I asked Miss Belle to sing,
and followed her to the piano, my eyes fell upon a curious object hung up in a little nook. It was a half-burned lamp-shade!

She was looking at me, and her eyes
were brimming with laughter.

"That is a relic," she said. "We keep it to remind us of a terrible man
who invaded our house—"

She was turning over the music,
and I was between her and the group
at the other end of the room.

"And you told the terrible man,"
I retorted, "to ask for anything in the house he might want, if he hadn't already taken it. Well, there is something in the house the terrible man wants, and some of these days he is coming back to ask for it."

"And what can it be? How I hope it is Fido!" replied Miss Belle Thompson.

Will and James have behaved well,
all things considered; though when either of them breaks into Homeric
laughter when there is nothing to laugh at I know what he is thinking of. As for Miss Thompson, she knew as well as she knows now that it was not Fido I was going to ask for.—

WANTED THEIR PHOTOGRAPES

Tender But Tantalizing Farewell of a Cornell Undergraduate to the Faculty.

Cornell university has its fair quota
of harum-scarum youths, who, after pyrotechnic careers, suddenly disappear from the university's ken. A wasteful genius was recently hailed
before the faculty to answer charges
of such violent fractures of discipline
that even in his most optimistic moments he had not hoped to explain
or disprove them satisfactorily, says
the New York Tribune. However, he faced the music and even stood with a considerable degree of composure
while proof after proof of misconduct was presented. Finally when the evidence was all in and the hush fell on the assembly that precedes sentence, the prodigal raised his down-
cast eyes, and, in a voice full of emotion, said:

"I have only one last request to make."

"And what is that?" asked the presiding officer.

"That you will give me your photographs to remember you by."

With this parting shot he dodged
out of the door, which he had taken pains to stand near. The professors
lay back in their chairs and laughed long and loud. Then they took the vote that severed the official connection between themselves and their tender young friend.

Miles Scroggins' First Effort.

Miles Scroggins was more than 50 years old, noted for his droll wit and funny sayings, but had never attempted to make a speech. All the members of the club believed he could speak if he would try, and frequently attempted to have him make the effort.

It was finally determined to compel him to speak. So, upon the assembling of the club, he was called upon and,
declining to comply, the boys grabbed
him and forcibly placed him upon a table, amidst the cheers of the crowd.

To the astonishment of all he manifested great embarrassment. The crowd continued to yell, and finally
he broke forth as follows:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: Oh, I beg
your pardon, there are no ladies present, and a—d few gentlemen, if any."

After this sally the curiosity of the crowd was satisfied, and no further effort was made to have Scroggins
make a speech.—Buffalo Courier.

Specimens of Professors' Wit.

Dr. Varnadoc, a noted professor of Greek, is very fond of flowers, and,
some days ago, on returning from his college duties, he found in his front yard a pestiferous calf belonging to a neighbor. The doctor gave chase, and the animal plunged toward the flower
pit, and in another instant crashed
through the glass cover and mixed at random with the pots and plants below. When another professor passed
a few minutes later, he said, gravely:
"I do not understand, Dr. Varnadoc,
why you should object so seriously to having a modest cowslip added to your fine collection of plants." The doctor's frowning face relaxed. "Ah, Sanborn," he retorted, "you see, this was only a worthless bulrush."—Ar-

BITS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

A Few Suggestions Which May Not
"Come Amis in Her Domestic Battles."

A recipe for crab soup said to have descended from Martha Washington
herself is found in an old manuscript
recipe book: Fifteen crabs thrown into boiling water alive. Boil until done; meat picked up fine; put into two quarts of water in which a pound
of middling bacon has been boiled.
Beat yolks of two eggs; stir in pint
of rich milk which has been heated.
Then pour into the boiling crab soup,
which must not boil, but cook a few minutes after mixing. Season with salt and cayenne pepper to taste.

An easy way to soften hard water
delightfully is to throw orange peel
into it just before the water is used.
The peel will not only prove agreeable to the skin, but will give out a fragrance like that which follows the use of toilet water, says the New York Post.

A delicious rice compound calls for a pint of rice thoroughly washed and put in a saucepan with a pint of boiled milk and a stick of cinnamon.
After cooking until the milk is absorbed remove from the stove, take out the cinnamon and set the rice
and milk aside to cool. When cold add the yolks of four eggs beaten
together with an ounce of sugar.
Beat the whites of six eggs to a foam. Whisk into the rice and beat the mixture thoroughly. Pour it into a buttered dish, bake to a light brown
and serve the moment it leaves the oven.

For an irritating throat cold and rasping cough an old-fashioned home
remedy that has received the endorsement of more than one physician is worth noting. Pour half a pint of hot water over a pound of the best
gun arabic; cover and let stand until the gum is dissolved, then add a quarter of a pound of pure white
sugar and a full half gill of strained lemon juice. Simmer the mixture over the fire about ten minutes before bottling and sealing with a tight cork. This sirup may be taken by the teaspoonful diluted with a little water at frequent intervals.

A harmless and cleanly treatment to drive away mice is to saturate a cloth with cayenne pepper in solution and stuff it into the hole. Dry cayenne thrown about will keep ants
and cockroaches away.

Salad baskets, for the benefit of those who may not know, are large,
round, shallow affairs made with handles and widely woven of fine, strong willow. In these the fresh green salad leaves are washed. They should be cut from the roots and
dropped loosely into the basket.
Plunge basket and all up and down
in a large pan of water, after which they should stand in a cool place to allow the leaves to drain.

NOT A NATIONAL BANK.

Woman Gives a Street Car Conductor
a Ten-Dollar Note and Regretted
Having Done So.

One of those thoughtful women who present a ten-dollar bill on a street car
for their five-cent fare received a lesson the other day which she is not apt to forget. She handed the bill to the conductor with an air of innocent un-concern which was just a little too pronounced to be natural. The conductor, a young fellow, unlike most of his kind, made no protest. The woman looked relieved in spite of herself as he accepted the money and retreated to the rear platform of the car to make change.

It was fully ten minutes later before
the young man strode into the car,
holding both hands before him so as to form a cup.

"Here you are, madam," he announced, in a loud voice which attracted the attention of the other passengers. "Here's the change for that ten-dollar bill. I'd advise you to count
it and make sure it's all right."

Saying this, he opened his hands and poured a stream of dimes, nickels and cents into the woman's lap.

"Oh, oh!" gasped the woman, as she gathered up her dress to prevent the coins falling on the floor. "Why, this is dreadful! I can't get all this money in my purse. Haven't you got larger change than this?"

"No, ma'am," responded the conductor. "That's the best I can do."

"But I thought you could give me
bits," protested the woman.

"I'm sorry, madam," said the conductor, according to the New York Times, "but you had no right to think
so. I ain't no national bank."

He Was Prepared.

One of the churches in a little western town has a young woman as its pastor. She was called to the door of the parsonage one day, and saw
there a much embarrassed young farmer of the German type.

"Dey say der minister lived in dis
house," he said.

"Yes," replied the fair pastor.

"Vell—m—I-I vant to kit merri!"

"To get married? Very well, I can marry you," said the minister, encouragingly.

"Oh, but I got a girl already," was the disconcerting reply. — Christian Evangelist.

CLEAR THE TRACK!
Here's the monarch—nothing
like it on earth. Salzer's New 20th Century Oat takes the cake, carries first prize as the biggest yielder everywhere. The fact is, Salzer's oats are bred to produce. The U.S. Department of Agriculture claims that out of over 400 samples and kinds tested, Salzer's were the best. How do you like that, Mr. Farmer? Our new 20th Century Oat is bound to completely revolutionize oat growing, and we expect dozens of farmers to report yields in 1902 ranging from 200 to 300 bushels per acre. Price is dirt cheap. Bet on the swim and buy this variety this spring to sell to your neighbors the coming fall for seed. It will surely pay you.
Salzer's Marvel Wheat—42 bus. per Acre

Our great catalogue contains full descriptions of our Handmade Barley, yielding 100 bushels; our Triple Income Corn, giving 400 bushels;
our potatoes, yielding 600 bushels per acre; our grass and clover
mixtures, producing 6 tons of excellent hay; our Peas
Oats, with its 8 tons of hay, and Tealote with 80 tons
of green fodder per acre. Salzer's great catalogue,

SOME WONDERFUL CROPS IN WESTERN CANADA.The Territorial Government Reports Show Results Beyond Belief.

Regina, Assiniboia, Canada, January 10th.—At the Agricultural Statistics Branch of the Department of Agriculture for the Territories, reports are now being received from grain threshers throughout the Territories, for statistical purposes. The reports are somewhat delayed this year, owing to the extensive crop and the delay in getting it threshed. The Department of Agriculture is leading the way in a new departure, with regard to the collection of crop statistics. In the older provinces, crop estimates are based entirely on the opinion of persons interested in the grain business who ought to be, and no doubt are, well posted upon the probable yields. Still the reports are simply a matter of opinion, in which a mistake may easily be made. The Territorial Department, however, has adopted the system of returns of crops actually threshed, upon which to base their reports. The accuracy of the reports cannot, therefore, be gainsaid, for they represent a compilation of actual threshing results. In this connection, it might be mentioned that the Department is organizing a system of growing crop returns, which will be in operation next summer. The information thus obtained, with estimated acreage, will be available for business men, banks, railway companies, and other interests which have to discount the future in making provision for the conduct of their business.

The crop reports already to hand show some remarkable cases of abnormal development. In the Regina district, many returns are given of crops of wheat running from 40 to 45 bushels to the acre.

J. A. Snell, of Yorkton, threshed 25,000 bushels of oats from 450 acres, an average of 63 bushels per acre for a large acreage.

W. R. Motherwell, of Abernethy, threshed 2,650 bushels of wheat from a 50 acre field, an average of 53 bushels per acre.

In the Edmonton district, T. T. Hutchings threshed 728 bushels of wheat from a ten-acre plot, an average of nearly 73 bushels per acre.

S. Norman threshed 6,950 bushels of oats from 60 acres of land, an average of 116 bushels per acre.

The publication of the actual yields of grain threshed will likely open the eyes of the people to the great capabilities of the western Canadian prairies.

When the shah returned to Persia after his visit to Paris he once more buried himself within the walls of his palace, like his ancestors. His subjects, however, have had a chance to see him occasionally on his automobile, which he brought along from Paris. This prince—Shoah-Saltane—is about 25 years old; he is interested in agriculture and has imported machinery of the latest patterns from Germany.

STYLISH.

In white the French flannel and cashmere waists are very stunning, trimmed with embroidery or tucks and French knots. Pale-blue, pink, yellow and black are the colors of the embroidery.

Boleros of ermine with black velvet gowns are promised for winter. Long black velvet coats are trimmed with ermine collar, cuffs and revers, the coat usually being lined with heavy white satin.

The fancy striped velvets used for trimming are very beautiful in coloring and are combined with satin-faced cloths, lighter wool fabrics and silks, which in plain colors are coming in again for entire gowns.

Fancy pearl buttons are losing favor, having been long in the field, and are rarely seen on new garments unless they are large and are used for coat fastenings. Some fur and velvet coats fasten with frogs and loops.

Buttons are restored to an important place on the list of trimmings. Of course, the handsome and costly button may do duty as an actual fastener, but quite as likely it is useless except for its ornamental value. The two uses are equally stylish.

Cut steel, crystal, rhinestone, mock and real jewels are put on cloth and velvet gowns. Embroidered velvet buttons are a fancy of this season, and are used extensively on shirt waists and bodices. Buttons of mock sapphires and emeralds finished with rhinestones look well on black velvet gowns.

Sapphire blue with a touch of burnt orange is a striking combination to be seen occasionally. Ribbons are beautiful in coloring and weaves. Dark Persian and cashmere effects are especially fine and are used freely on black and dark cloth. The dark Persian colorings make a stunning finish for black velvet.

CONGRESSMAN HOWARD.

Of National Reputation are the Men Who Recommend Pe-ru-na to Fellow Sufferers.A Remarkable Case Reported From the State of New York.

CONGRESSMAN HOWARD, OF ALABAMA.

House of Representatives,
Washington, Feb. 4, 1899.
The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus,
Ohio:

Gentlemen—"I have taken Peruna now for two weeks, and find I am very much relieved. I feel that my cure will be permanent. I have also taken it for la grippe, and I take pleasure in recommending Peruna as an excellent remedy to all fellow sufferers."

M. W. HOWARD.

Congressman Howard's home address is Fort Payne, Ala.

MOST people think that catarrh is a disease confined to the head and nose. Nothing is farther from the truth. It may be that the nose and throat are the most often affected by catarrh, but if this is so it is so only because these parts are more exposed to the vicissitudes of the climate than the other parts of the body.

Every organ, every duct, every cavity of the human body is liable to catarrh. A multitude of ailments depend on catarrh. This is true winter and summer. Catarrh causes many cases of chronic disease, where the victim has not the slightest suspicion that catarrh has anything to do with it.

The following letter which gives the experience of Mr. A. C. Lockhart is a case in point:

Mr. A. C. Lockhart, corner Cottage St. and Thurston Road, Rochester, N. Y., in a letter written to Dr. Hartman says the following of Peruna:

"About fifteen years ago I commenced to be ailing, and consulted a physician. He pronounced my trouble a species of dyspepsia, and advised me, after he had treated me about six months, to get a leave of absence from my business and go into the country. I did so and got temporary relief. I went back to work again, but was taken with very distressing pains in my stomach.

"I said to myself, 'I have taken Peruna for two weeks, and find I am very much relieved. I feel that my cure will be permanent. I have also taken it for la grippe, and I take pleasure in recommending Peruna as an excellent remedy to all fellow sufferers.'"

"I was given a thorough examination with the X-ray. They would not even determine what my trouble was. Some of your testimonials in the Rochester papers seemed to me worthy of consideration, and I made up my mind to try a bottle of Peruna. Before the bottle was half gone I noticed a change for the better. I am now on the fifth bottle, and have not an ache or pain anywhere. My bowels move regularly every day, and I have taken on eighteen pounds of flesh. I have recommended Peruna to a great many and they recommend it very highly. I have told several people that if they would take a bottle of Peruna, and could then candidly say that it had benefited them, I would pay for the medicine."

It is really amusing to see a Republican sneak around behind the barn and pass the tariff on lumber every time he thinks of how much it costs him.—Fair burg, Neb., Journal.

The Nebraska banker who stole $160,000 has been humiliated by being sentenced to the penitentiary for as many years as the Illinois thief who stole a set of harness.

The New Jersey legislature has appropriated $10,000 for the extermination of the mosquitoes. We have a few of the pests in Paris in their season, but there are "no flies on us."

In the public schools of Massachusetts the pupils are forbidden to eat onions and some have been expelled on that account. There must be something in the saying that "in onions there is strength."

A MEMBER of the Canadian parliament talks of sending an army of Canadians over to our State for the purpose of annexing us to that blooming territory. My, but wouldn't that flutter your Raglan. What we would do to them would be a plenty.

MARCH and Lent are two combinations that serve to drive all the fashionable sinners to fill the piazzas of Southern hotels or of nearer by resorts. March is the great vacation month for those whose health, conscience and purse will permit them to migrate.

PRINCIPALLY as a result of the fixing of prices by trusts the prices for the necessities of life in the United States have advanced nearly 50 per cent. since 1897. It is possible that the days of feudalism are reaching us here in free America? It seems to be gradually drawing upon us.—Exchange.

PRINCE HENRY, of Prussia, was "much impressed" with Niagara Falls. So was his uncle, the present King of England. And there have and there will continue to be others. In its line in all the world, Niagara is without a peer, while Edward and William have godfathers of em.—Times.

PRINCE HENRY is an inveterate cigarette smoker. Many of his presents to Washington people were cigarette cases, some of gold and some of gunmetal and silver.

Mercy, we are sorry you told us. We did think the Prince was a man.

For the first time in its history, this government will send representatives abroad for the special purpose of participating in the crowning of a king. A century ago Americans believed they had made great progress in a movement that would drive crowned heads and crowns from the earth. What chumps our forefathers were!—Council Bluffs Tribune.

DEMOCRACY may have its defects—what system of politics or religion has not? But its great cardinal doctrine that repose confidence in the people to act wisely for their own best needs stands forever and beyond comparison superior to the Republican doctrine of centralization of power and distrust of the people. Democrats who falter under the discouragement of temporary defeat, should drink again and drink deeply of the Jeffersonian spirit.—Richmond, Mo., Democrat.

ONE of the latest inventions for massage is a rubber hand. We have long been in the colloquial habit of considering the term "rubber neck" as a reproach. The rubber hand, however, is expected to be in reality a glad hand, for its use is to prevent baldness. The gentle friction of the scalp that it produces is claimed to be more directly beneficial in effect than massage by the fingers. This would seem to kill the theory of the transmission of electric or magnetic force, for rubber is a non-conductor. However, rubber hands, minus a thumb, are in the market and the baldheaded row will soon be ancient history in a different sense from what it is now.

FORMER State Senator Charles B. Poyntz, of Maysville, in an interview in the Cincinnati Enquirer, says:

"Governor Beckham is undoubtedly eligible to re-election, and will be a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. He is much stronger than ever before. His letter to Governor Durbin, of Indiana, concerning W. S. Taylor's extradition was exceptionally good; full of logic and hard sense. His message to the Legislature now in session was the soundest and best in every respect as a state paper ever promulgated by any Governor of Kentucky. Whenever and wherever he goes Beckham makes friends, who always remain loyal to him. My prediction is that he will have no opposition before the next state convention, and that he will be nominated and elected Governor again by a large majority. He is discreet, diplomatic and wise beyond his years. Much more word—he will win with hands down."

You Do, or You Don't Need Glasses

The eye being a rather delicate organ, great care should be exercised in the selection of proper glasses. Many believe that glasses should be resorted to only when the sight becomes so defective as not to be able to do without. This is a great mistake which must be combated. Whenever there is unmistakable evidence of the need of their aid, they should be used. A neglect of this rule sometimes produces mischief which results in serious trouble if the course be persisted in.

LEFT OUT.—It is now likely that Winchester, like Versailles, will be left out of the interurban railway system of the Bluegrass. The Council at Winchester has not yet refused to grant the railroad people a franchise, but it has delayed the matter from time to time and may not again be asked to come in.

BOILERS EXPLODE.—The boiler sheds and engine room of the Peacock Distilling Company's plant, near Kiserion, were badly damaged by an explosion. THE FAIR.

SETTLED.—The North Western National Insurance Company, represented by T. Porter Smith of this city, on Saturday, settled in full for its policies on the burned court house, amounting to $1,000. This settlement is an evidence that the county is entitled to all claims due them, and the other companies would do well to follow suit and thus save costs of a suit in court. Some of the companies say they will fight the case to the bitter end.

HAVE RETURNED.—Joseph Harris, of Kiserion, and Perry Shy, of Paris, students at Kentucky Wesleyan College, have returned from Toronto, Canada. They were delegates to the convention held in the interest of the students' volunteer movement. While in Toronto they were royally entertained by the Canadians. Mr. Harris lost his ticket while there, but the generous Canucks provided for his needs and furnished him transportation home.

SOCIAL STIR.—Word comes from Danville of a stir in the younger set. It seems that a fraternity of Central University gave an entertainment. Many members of Danville's society were in attendance, but the face of a popular belle was missing. It is understood that she was the relative of a lady with whom four of the members of the fraternity boarded, and on the morning following the entertainment these boarders found notices under their plates requesting that they seek temporary homes elsewhere.

A Paris Boy Promoted.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of Saturday published a half-tone picture and the following notice of Mr. Oscar L. Mitchell, formerly of this city:

"O. L. Mitchell, Division Passenger Agent of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company, whose headquarters are at Chattanooga, will sever his connection with that company to come here the first of next month as Southern Passenger Agent of the Lake Shore Road, succeeding John W. Daly, who, on the 1st inst., went to Buffalo as General Eastern Agent."

"Mr. Mitchell commenced his railroad career with the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Road under General Passenger Agent E. O. McCormick. Seven years ago he took service with the Queen and Crescent as Traveling Passenger Agent, with headquarters at Knoxville, Tenn., and a year later was transferred to Birmingham, Ala. He was made Division Passenger Agent at Chattanooga, succeeding A. J. Lytle when the latter came here as Chief Clerk to General Passenger Agent Rineason. Mr. Mitchell is single, about 34 years of age, and one of the best known passenger men in the territory south of the Ohio River. J. Clinton Conn, who is now City Ticket Agent of the C., N. O. and T. P. at Chattanooga, will succeed Mr. Mitchell as Division Passenger Agent, and Thos. Mitchell, Assistant City Ticket Agent, will succeed Mr. Conn as City Ticket Agent."

Circuit Court.

Circuit Court opened yesterday at the Odd Fellows' Hall, with Judge Cantrill and Prosecuting Attorney Franklin at their places.

The first day of court was taken up with the assignment of cases for trial. W. C. P. Breckinridge was present to represent the insurance companies.

Mr. Charles McMillan was sworn and admitted to the bar.

The following compose the grand jury:

R. J. Neely, foreman, G. W. Morrow, Ben F. Hopkins, W. H. Clarke, Wm. Thomason, Frank Isgrig, Wm. S. Jones, John A. LaRue, J. Wm. Young, Wm. F. Turner, Fletcher Weathers, Willis Boston.

LASTING IMPRESSION.—The play of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" teaches a lesson in temperance of more lasting value than all the temperance lectures on the rostrum. It will be presented at the Grand next Monday night by an excellent company at popular prices.

NEW FIRM.—The business of the old firm of G. Tucker, deceased, has been settled and yesterday, Mr. W. Ed Tucker succeeded the firm and will continue the business at the old stand. Mr. Tucker is one of our most popular young business men and will no doubt command a liberal share of public patronage. He was for a number of years the assistant buyer for the house and has a thorough training under his father, who was one of our most successful merchants for forty years. Mr. Tucker will start East in a few days to purchase the best and most complete stocks ever brought to Paris.

MASS MEETING.—The mass meeting which was to have been held Saturday afternoon at Clintonville in the interest of the proposed interurban road from Lexington to North Middletown, was postponed on account of the weather. The people of that vicinity are very anxious that the Blue Grass Consolidated Traction Company extend their system to North Middletown, but as yet the company has not seen its way clear to do so, on account of the small population along the line of the proposed route. So desirous are the citizens, however, that they have determined to meet in mass meeting in order to make inducements to the company to build a road to North Middletown. The meeting will be held sometime this week.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Dean Baker P. Lee, of Lexington, has received a call from a Chicago church at an annual salary of $15,000.

The County Bible Society will hold its annual meeting at the Second Presbyterian Church, in this city, on Sunday evening next, at 7:30. The address will be delivered by either Rev. Mr. Spencer or Elder Jenkins, of Lexington. C. M. THOMAS, President. W. M. COODLOE, Secretary.

HIS TOUR AT AN END.

Prince Henry Traveled Through
13 States and Logged a Total
Distance of 4,358 Miles.

GREATLY PLEASED WITH HIS TRIP

His Last Day Began With a Visit to Albany and Closed With a Reception at West Point.

Mayor Gaus in Behalf of Albany and
Gov. Odell For the State Met the Prince With Official
Greetings.

Boston, March 7.—Prince Henry of Prussia was the guest of Boston Thursday. His welcome was cordial. Gov. Crane and Mayor Collins, acting for the state and city, extended the official courtesies to him and when the prince ceremoniously returned their calls he went to Cambridge to deliver the gifts of his brother, the emperor, to the Germanic museum and to receive from Harvard the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Prince Henry's first act at the Harvard union shortly after he received the degree was to propose and lead three cheers for President Roosevelt, who is a Harvard alumnus. The prince received a cablegram from the emperor congratulating him on his newest honor.

Thursday night the prince was given a dinner by the city of Boston and sat at a table with more than 200 of the representative citizens of the commonwealth. He will resume his journey early Friday morning and he will visit Albany and the United States military academy at West Point en route to New York, which he will reach Friday evening. Bright sunlight favored the day and the streets were thronged. The special train which carried the prince was not delayed by flood or storm and made the time planned for it by the railroad men. It halted for a few moments at Springfield, but not at Worcester.

Boston was reached at 9:35 o'clock and as soon as the special halted in South station Mayor Collins and a delegation of city officials boarded the train and were introduced to the prince by Ambassador Von Holleben. There was an exchange of greetings, and the prince, his staff and the members of the American escort were shown to carriages waiting at the driveway of the depot. Escorted by cavalrymen and naval militiamen, the party was driven to Hotel Somerset.

The prince wore his naval uniform and acknowledged the greetings with his characteristic salute. When the carriage reached the common battery sounded a royal salute.

The heartiest part of Boston's formal welcome to Prince Henry was concentrated in the banquet at the Hotel Somerset Thursday evening. To the sentiments expressed there his royal highness made a formal response.

The special train of Prince Henry and suite left at 2 o'clock Friday morning for Albany over the Albany division of the New York Central railroad.

New York, March 8.—Prince Henry Friday completed his tour and is once more in New York, where he will remain until Monday, when he goes to Philadelphia. He was absent from the city for nine days, during which time his special train was within the territory of 13 states and logged a total distance of 4,358 miles. He was greatly pleased with his trip and, through his aide, Capt. Von Muller, issued a statement expressing his satisfaction at the opportunity which came to him, and his gratification at the cordiality with which he was received throughout the country.

His last day on the special train which carried him to the south, west and east rivalled in interest any of the others spent by the prince on the tour, for it began with a visit to Albany, included a run in bright sunlight down the west shore of the Hudson river and closed with a reception at the United States military academy at West Point.

He was received by the two houses of the legislature and returned his thanks to their presiding officers for the honor. He looked through the capitol and, returning under guard of cavalry, infantry and police to the Union station, left at 10:30 for West Point. West Point was reached at 2 o'clock and the prince was received with the military honor due his place in the naval service of his country. Col. Mills came to the station with a number of the officers of the academy and with a troop of cavalry drove him to the parade ground on the heights above. As the cavalry escort showed at the brow of the inclined road, Knox battery fired 21 guns. The cadets formed in six companies were at once marched on the field and the prince, with Col. Mills and their respective staffs, inspected them. Dress parade followed with the prince as reviewing officer.

At the close of the review the prince visited memorial hall, where the officers on duty at the academy were introduced to him. He greeted them all very warmly and complimented them on their work.

Leaving memorial hall the prince and his staff went to the riding school where the cadets gave an exhibition of riding. The jumping feats of Cadet Herr, of the first class, attracted the attention of the prince, and at his request Herr repeated a standing jump to the back of his horse in motion. The cadet landed safely on his feet and jumped off again without losing his balance. After the display of rough riding the prince was taken to the gymnasium and a class of cadets went through their exercises for him. The parting call of the prince was at the house of Col. Mills, whom he repeatedly congratulated and thanked. He was so much interested in the post that he prolonged his stay 20 minutes beyond the time set for his departure. Col. Mills was invited to ride on the special to New York, and rode with the prince to the station. As the carriage with cavalry escort left the grounds another salute of 21 guns was fired.

Prince Henry sent for George W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania railroad, who personally directed the railroad arrangements of the tour, and thanked him. He paid high compliments to American railroads and in conclusion asked Mr. Boyd to be his guest at luncheon on Tuesday next.

The prince had originally intended to return to the Hohenzollern, but the discovery of a case of scarlet fever in the crew changed his mind. He did not fear infection himself, but decided, in view of the fact that he is to meet a large number of persons during the four remaining days of his stay in the United States that it would be better to go to a hotel.

New York, March 10.—Prince Henry of Prussia was the central figure Sunday in another round of entertainment arranged in his honor. He first listened to a concert at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, largely made up of his favorite American songs, the concert being arranged at his request. When that was over he drove to the University club to a luncheon which was not concluded until afternoon. In the evening he was a guest at dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and met a large party made up of persons of social prominence. When the prince bade farewell to the company at the Vanderbilt home he went to the New York Yacht club for an informal reception, and the hour was late when he returned to the Waldorf-Astoria for the night. He found time, between the four main events on his programme for the day, to receive a delegation representing the Commercial club of St. Paul and several callers, and, to finally complete the arrangements for the last two days' stay in the country and his departure for home. He had intended to be present at the religious services on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern in the morning, but the case of scarlet fever which developed there several days ago altered that plan. Instead he remained at the hotel, arising late and breakfasting at his leisure. It was the Arion society, of Brooklyn, winner of the Kaiser's prize at the singing festival in Brooklyn in 1900 that furnished the morning concert for the prince at the hotel.

It had been originally arranged that the singers should serenade the prince aboard the Hohenzollern Saturday, but in the change of the plan the serenade was abandoned. The prince met Dr. W. John Schilge, chairman of the music committee of the society, at dinner Saturday night and expressed regret that he was not to have a chance to hear the club sing. The doctor suggested that it might still take place at the hotel and the prince approved the idea. It was midnight, but a few hours remaining to arrange the affair. Telegrams and telephone messages were hurried out to the members and by 11 o'clock 150 of them had reported at the hotel.

The concert took place in the Astor gallery and began at 11:30. The prince sat in the center of the hall surrounded by the members of his suite, the American escort, Ambassador Von Holleben, Consul General Buentz and Consul Geissler. The chorus first sang "Pries Lied," and after that, at the request of the prince, an extended programme which included "Old Kentucky Home" and "Dixie." The concluding number was Kreuzer's "The Lord's Own Day," and it was rendered very effectively. The prince was delighted with the serenade and, after shaking hands with the officers of the society, addressed the members briefly in German.

WORTHLESS FISH.

A Unique Plan to Weed Them Out of Indiana Lakes.

Wabash, Ind., March 10.—Fish Commissioner Sweeney, of this state, will this month commence a war of extermination on the worthless fish in the myriad of lakes in this part of the state. Acting on the advice of the attorney general, Mr. Sweeney is having made a huge seine, 1,000 feet in length, and, with a large force of men, will systematically seine the Northern Indiana lakes. All the dogfish, gar, carp and turtles brought out in the seine will be destroyed, while the bass, pickerel, pike, perch and other food fish will be restored to the water.

It is claimed that the worthless fish in the lakes not only destroy the other fish, but consume the food, so that the game fish lack subsistence. Commissioner Sweeney will have the work done under his personal supervision. Within the last 20 years great pains were taken to stock the lakes and rivers with German carp, which have become an intolerable nuisance.

Killed By a Dummy Engine.
Birmingham, Ala., March 7.—Martin J. Lynch, superintendent of the construction of the locks in the Warrior river, was run over by a dummy engine at Tuscaloosa Thursday and instantly killed. His remains were sent to his home at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Thursday night.

Wolcott and Jackson Signed.

A FINANCIAL MEASURE.

New Bill Introduced in the House of Representatives.

It Is Thought the New Legislation Will Remove the Last Vestige of Doubt
With Regard to Our Standard of Value.

Washington, March 10.—Chairman Fowler, of the house committee on banking and currency Monday will introduce an important financial measure framed by the republican members of the committee after conferences extending through the last two months. It brings together into one financial measure a number of propositions which have been urged separately heretofore.

Mr. Fowler explains the purpose of the bill as follows:
"The purposes of the bill are: To transfer from the government to the banks the responsibility of protecting the necessary gold reserve and the burden of furnishing gold for export, thereby saving our commerce from the destructive apprehensions growing out of raids upon the 'gold in the treasury,' which can now only be replenished by a tax imposed upon the people through the sale of bonds; to provide a currency always responsive and equal to the demands of trade everywhere, and to equalize and lower the average rate of interest in all parts of the United States; to secure for American enterprise and American capital the privileges and opportunities in engaging in international banking under national law and so lay a foundation upon which to build an American merchant marine; to remove the last vestige of doubt with regard to our standard of value.

"The measure provides for international banking and a division of banking and currency is established under a board of control instead of a single individual person of the controller of the currency, as heretofore. The board will consist of three members, whose terms of office are for 12 years so arranged that only one member will secede every four years.

"If the measure now introduced should become a law it is confidently believed that the national banks will assume the current redemption in gold coin of one hundred and thirty millions of United States notes. In consideration of the obligation assumed by the national banks they will have the right during the succeeding five years to issue gradually as business may require an amount of bank notes equal to 60 per centum of their paid up and unimpaired capital; provision being made also for an emergency circulation.

"As the notes are taken out for circulation the banks will deposit with the government a guarantee fund of five percent. of the amount of the notes so issued."

MISS STONE'S CAPTURE.

A Second Note Sent to the Porte By
the United States Legation.

Constantinople, March 10.—The American legation here Sunday presented to the porte the second note referring to the capture of Miss Ellen M. Stone. In this note it is pointed out that as Miss Stone was captured, the ransom paid, and the prisoners delivered in Turkey, the brigands must be within the Turkish frontier and should therefore be captured.

The note denies that the authorities were ever required to lessen their vigilance on the frontier and asserts that only the movements of the troops in the interior were interfered with.

The first note presented to the porte by the United States legation at Constantinople in the matter of Miss Stone's capture by brigands demanded the punishment of the guilty parties. The porte, in replying, repudiated responsibility.

VIOLATED CIVIL SERVICE RULE.

Charges Preferred Against United States Officers at Knoxville, Tenn.

Knoxville, Tenn., March 10.—Charges have been preferred against United States District Attorney Wright, United States Marshal Austin, Assistant Postmaster Skaggs and three or four minor officials for alleged violations of Rule 2 of the civil service commission. The charges, it is said, resulted from the race for congress in this district, the accused being friends of Congressman Gibson, who is opposed for nomination by N. W. Hale, in a primary to be held March 22.

Hall, of Newburgh, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Van Ness sailed on the steamer Celtic for a trip to the Orient, his desire being to gratify an ambition of years to be baptized in the Jordan.

LONG OVERDUE VESSEL.

The Etruria, Disabled, Arrived at Horta, Azores, Sunday.

Horta, Azores, March 10.—The Etruria anchored here at 6 o'clock Sunday evening. All on board are well. She had a comparatively uneventful passage except for a breakdown which occurred during the dinner hour of February 26. When this occurred the Etruria had only just finished speaking by wireless telegraphy with the Cunard line steamer Umbria. After the accident was discovered the Etruria called the Umbria wirelessly for one hour, but without success. Upon examination it was found that the ship's propeller had broken off outside the tube and that the rudder had been carried away by the propeller. The Etruria then sent up rockets which were seen by the British steamer William Cliff. The latter bore down and was alongside in 50 minutes after the accident. She stood by until daylight, when, after several attempts she succeeded in passing a stamer aboard the Etruria. The tank steamer Ottawa arrived on the scene at this time. The William Cliff then attempted to tow the Etruria, while the Ottawa attempted to steer her. The hawser, however, snapped. The Ottawa stood by for two days and then left for Fayed, bearing the second officer of the Etruria to report the disaster and obtain assistance. In the meanwhile the crew of the Etruria had made every effort to rig a jury rudder. The first such rudder carried away immediately an attempt was made to use it. After further efforts lasting for two days a second jury rudder was successfully adjusted and is still in position.

The passengers of the Etruria were satisfied they were in no danger and they praise the conduct of the captain and crew of the vessel. After the accident the passengers amused themselves with the usual deck sports, and concerts were held in the first and second cabins. Only those who were anxious concerning business matters chafed at the unavoidable delay.

The Etruria will wait here for the arrival of the royal mail steamer Elbe, which left Southampton for Horta Saturday. The Elbe will carry the Etruria's passengers to England. The Etruria will then be towed home by the two tugs which are now on their way out from Liverpool for this purpose.

THE DISPUTED TERRITORY.

Mission Property Over Which French
and Americans Are Squabbling.

Tien-Tsin, March 10.—The mission property here which is in dispute between the French and American consuls is less than two acres in extent. It borders the American mission property and was previously occupied by undesirable Chinamen. The French consul stopped building operations on the disputed property and placed a policeman there. The French flag has not been raised over the property. The American consul here, James W. Ragsdale, is maintaining a firm attitude and does not believe serious developments to be likely. The affair is in the hands of the French and American ministers at Peking.

MASSACRED CHINESE.

The Russian General Gribski Dismissed
From the Army.

London, March 10.—A dispatch to the Daily Chronicle from Berlin says that the Russian Gen. Gribski, who was responsible for the massacre at Blagovestchensk, has been dismissed from the army.

According to reports of the Blagovestchensk massacre about 5,000 Chinese were driven by the Russians into the Amur river. Russian troops on the banks clubbed or shot any who attempted to land and the river bank was strewn with corpses for miles.

PROVINCE OF RIZAL.

The Insurgents There Have Been Dispersed.

Maj. Littleton, W. T. Waller and Lieut.
John H. A. Day Will Be Court-Martialed For Executing Natives Without Trial.

Manila, March 10.—Lieut. Howland, of the 21st infantry, and aide on the staff of Gen. Wheaton, who was sent to report on the state of affairs in Rizal province, after the recent outbreak of activity there, reports that the insurgents have now been dispersed and that the soldiers and constabulary are closely pursuing them. There is but a small force of insurgents in the province and they are greatly over-officered. It is clear that the insurgents in Rizal province had no idea how quickly the troops and constabulary could concentrate and break their power. Complete harmony exists between the American soldiers and the native constabulary in this district and both have done excellent work during a short campaign.

The troops consisted of six officers and 230 men of the 5th cavalry. Col. James Forney, of the marine corps, will preside at the court-martial to try Maj. Littleton, W. T. Waller and Lieut. John H. A. Day, of the marine corps, March 17 next, on the charge of executing natives of the island of Samar without trial. The court-martial will be composed of army officers and officers of the marine corps. The charges specify that Maj. Waller and Lieut. Day killed three native stevedores on the streets of Bazy, Island of Samar, without trial. These stevedores were among those who accompanied the disastrous expedition of Maj. Waller and a detachment of marines to the interior of Samar last December.

It is claimed these stevedores mutilated and proceeded to the foothills, where they dug camotes (a variety of sweet potato) and that they later concealed and refused to turn them over to the Americans, saying that when the marines died of hunger they would have a good supply of arms and ammunition.

Sympathy is expressed for Maj. Waller, who at that time was suffering from mental and physical strain. Lieut. Day apparently obeyed Maj. Waller's orders.

MIMIC INDIAN BATTLE.

A Boy Dead From a Wound Received
in the Breast.

Denver, Col., March 10.—Stewart Hill, aged 9 years, died here Sunday from the effects of a bullet wound in the breast received Saturday while engaged in a mimic Indian battle. James Hutson, aged 12 years, is under arrest, charged with murder. Four boys, all 12 years of age or under, stationed themselves behind barricades about 30 yards apart, and had exchanged about 20 shots when Hill fell, pierced through the lung. According to the other boys, Hill had slipped out in the open, when Hutson took deliberate aim and fired. Chief of Police Armstrong says he intends to take measures against those who are responsible for the boys having firearms.

AN IMMENSE ICE FLOE.

It Was Encountered About 200 Miles
Off the Japanese Coast.

Port Townsend, Wash., March 10.—The British steamship Oceania reports having encountered an immense ice floe about 200 miles off the Japanese coast abreast of the entrance to Tsugar strait. So extensively was the ice floe that the steamer was compelled to change her course and steam for several hours to avoid coming in collision with the ice. The floe is in the direct path of vessels sailing to the Orient and as it is quite extensive is dangerous to navigation.

for months after, and at the time I thought death was a welcome relief; but before my last child was born a good neighbor advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I used that, together with your Pills and Sanative Wash for four months before the child's birth;—it brought me wonderful relief. THE BYME-BY MAN.

I knew a byme-by man,
I'll introduce to you,
And fancy many wives
Will say: "I know him, too."
You'll find him on a farm
(Inherited you know)
For at earning money
He is so very slow.

He meets you at the gate
And greets you with a sigh;
Says he will mend that gate
Some rainy day by-me-by,
He's had so much to do
He's had no time to spare;
It really seems to him
He has a world of care.

Then, too, the whole porch floor
Is rotted to the ground,
And gross neglect is seen
In everything around.
He hastens to assert
That things have gone awry,
There's been so much to do
He'll fix them up by-me-by.

You'll find that he burns wood
As green as it can be,
But promises his wife
That next year she will see
He'll have good seasoned wood.
Poor soul! she heaves a sigh,
She knows full well he'll break
This promise by and by.

For thirty years and more
Each year it's been just so,
With not a promise kept,
Although years come and go.
And is it any wonder
When people hear him plan,
They shake their heads in doubt,
For he's a byme-by man.

Some mad thought took me, I believe, that the mere fierceness and heat of my kisses would bring her back again to life and wakefulness. Indeed, I will own plainly that I did eat sorry credit to my training in calmness that night. But she lay in my arms cold and nerveless as a corpse, and by degrees my sober wits returned to me.

This was no place for either of us. Let the earth's tremors cease (as was plainly threatened), let daylight come, and let a few of these nerveless people round recover from their panic, and all the great cost that had been expended might be counted as waste. We should be seen, and it would not be long before some one put a name to Nais; and then it would be an easy matter to guess at Deucalion under the beard and the shaggy hair and the browned nakedness of the savage who attended on her. Tell of fright? By the gods! I was scared as the veriest trembler who blundered among the dust-clouds that night when the thought came to me.

It was hard to find a direction; it was hard to walk in that inky darkness over the ground that was tossed and tumbled like a frozen sea; and as the earth still quaked and heaved, it was hard also to keep a footing. But if I did fall myself a score of times, my dear burden got no bruise, and presently I got to the skirts of the square and found a street I knew. The most venomous part of the shaking was done, and no more buildings fell, but enough lay sprawled over the roadway to make walking into a climb, and the sweat rolled from me as I labored along my way.

There was no difficulty about passing the gate. There was no gate. There was no wall. The gods had driven their plow through it, and it lay flat, and proud Atlantis stood as defenseless as the open country. Though I knew the cause of this ruin, though in fact I had myself in some measure incited it, I was almost sad at the ruthlessness with which it had been carried out. The royal pyramid might go, houses and palaces might be leveled, and for these I cared little enough; but when I saw those stately ramparts also felled away, there the soldier in me woke, and I grieved at this humbling of the mighty city that once had been my only mistress.

But this was only a passing regret, a mere touch of the fighting-man's pride. I had a different love now, that had wrapped herself round me far deeper and more tightly, and my duty was towards her first and foremost. The night would soon be past, and then dangers would increase. None had interfered with us so far, though many had jostled us as I clambered over the ruins; but this forbearance could not be reckoned upon for long. The earth-tremors had almost died away, and after the panic and the storm, then comes the time for the spoiling.

All men who were poor would try to seize what lay nearest to their hands, and those of higher station, and any soldiers who could be collected and still remained true to command, would ruthlessly stop and strip any man they saw making off with plunder. I had no mind to clash with these guardians of law and property, and so I fled on swiftly through the night with my burden, using the unfrequented ways, and crying to the few folk who did meet me that the woman had the plague, and would they lend me the shelter of their house, as ours had fallen. And so in time we came to the place where the rope dangled from the precipice, and after Nais had been drawn up to the safety of the Sacred Mountain, I put my leg in the loop of the rope and followed her.

Now came what was the keenest anxiety of all. We took the girl and laid her on a bed in one of the houses, and there in the lit room for the first time I saw her clearly. Her beauty was drawn and pale. Her eyes were closed, but so thin and transparent had grown the lids that one could almost see the brown of the pupils beneath them. Her hair had grown to inordinate thickness and length, and lay as a cushion behind and beside her head.

There was no flicker of breath; there was none of that pulsing of the body which denotes life; but still she had not the appearance of ordinary death. The Nais I had placed nine long years before to rest in the hollow of the stone was a fine grown woman, full-bodied and well-boned. The Nais that remained for me was half her weight. The old Nais it would have puzzled me to carry for an hour; this was no burden to impede a grown man.

In other ways too she had altered. The nails of her fingers had grown to such a great length that they were twisted in spirals, and the fingers themselves and her hands were so waxy and transparent that the bony core upon which they were built showed itself beneath the flesh in plain dull outline. Her clay-cold lips were so white that one sighed to remember the full beauty of their carmine. Her shoulders and neck had lost their comely curves, and made bony hollows now in which the dust of entombment lodged black and thickly.

Reverently I set about preparing those things which if all went well would restore her. I heated water and filled a bath, and tintured it heavily with those essences of the life of beasts which the priests extract and store against times of urgent need and sickness. I laid her chin-deep in this bath, and sat beside it to watch, maintaining that bath at a constant blood heat.

An hour I watched; two hours I watched; three hours—and yet she showed no flicker of life. The heat of her body given her by the bath was the same as the heat of my own. But in the feel of her skin when I stroked it with my hand there was something lacking still. Only when our Lord the Sun rose for his day did I break off my watching, while I said the necessary prayer which is prescribed, and quickly returned again to the gloom of the house.

It is hard to take note of small changes which occur with infinitesimally slow when one is all the while on the tense watch, and high-strung though my senses were, I think there must have been some indication of returning life shown before I was keen enough to notice it. For of a sudden, as I gazed, I saw a faint rippling on the surface of the water of the bath. Gods! would it come back again to my love at last—this life, this wakefulness? The ripple died out as it had come, and I stooped my head nearer to the bath to try if I could see some faint heaving of her bosom, some small twitching of the limbs. No, she lay there still without even a flutter of movement. But as I watched, surely it seemed to my aching eyes that some thing was beginning to warm that blank whiteness of skin?

How I filled myself with that sight. The color was returning to her again beyond a doubt. Once more the dried blood was becoming fluid and beginning again to course in its old channels. Her hair floated out in the liquid of the bath like some brown tangle of the ocean weed, and ever and again it twitched and eddied to some impulse which in itself was too small for the eye to see.

She had slept for nine long years, and I knew that the awakening could be none of the suddenest. Indeed, it came by its own gradations and with infinite slowness, and I did not dare do more to hasten it. Further drugs might very well stop eternally what those which had been used already had begun. So I sat motionless where I was, and watched the color come back, and the waxiness go, and even the fullness of her curves in some small measure return. And when growing strength gave her power to endure them, and she was racked with those pains which are inevitable to being borne back again in this fashion to life, I, too, felt the reflex of her agony, and writhed in loving sympathy.

Still further, too, was I wrung by a torment of doubt as to whether life or these rackings would in the end be conqueror. After each paroxysm the color ebbed back from her again, and for awhile she would lie motionless. But strength and power seemed gradually to grow, and at last these prevailed, and drove death and sleep beneath them. Her eyelids struggled with their fastenings. Her lips parted, and her bosom heaved. With shivering gasps her breath began to pant between her reddening lips. At first it rattled dryly in her throat, but soon it softened and became more regular. And then with a last effort her eyes, her glorious, loving eyes, slowly opened.

I leaned over and called her softly by name.

Her eyes met mine, and a glow arose from their depths that gave me the greatest joy I have met in all the world. "Deucalion, my love," she whispered. "Oh, my dear, so you have come to me. How I have dreamed of you! How

I have been racked! But it was worth it all for this!"

CHAPTER XVI.

STORM OF THE SACRED MOUNTAIN.
It was Nais herself who sent me to attend to my sterner duties. The din of the attack came to us in the house where I was tending her, and she asked its meaning. As pithily as might be, for she was in no condition for tedious listening, I gave her the history of her nine years' sleep.

The color flushed more to her face. "My lord is the properest man in all the world to be king," she whispered. She closed her eyes then, lying back among the cushions where I had placed her, and dropped off into healthy sleep, with the smiles still playing upon her lips. I put the coverlet over her, and kissed her lightly, holding back my beard lest it should sweep her cheek. And then I went out of the chamber.

That beard had grown vastly disagreeable to me these last hours, and I then went into a room in the house, and found instruments, and shaved it down to the bare chin. A change of robe also I found there, and took it instead of my squalid rags. If a man is in truth a king, he owes these things to the dignity of his office.

But, if the din of the fighting was any guide, mine was a narrowing kingdom. Every hour it seemed to grow fiercer and more near, and it was clear that some of the gates in the passage up the cleft in the cliff, impregnable though all men had thought them, had yielded to the vehemence of Phoenice's attack. And, indeed, it was scarcely to be marvelled at. With all her genius spurred on to fury by the blow that had been struck at her by wrecking so fair a part of the city, the empress would be no light adversary even for a strong place to resist, and the Sacred Mountain was no longer strong.

Defenses of stone, cunningly planned and mightily built, it still possessed, but these will not fight alone. They need men to line them, and, moreover, abundance of men. For always in a storm of this kind some desperate fellows will spit at death and get to hand grips, or slingers and archers slip in their shot, or the throwing-fire gets home, or (as here) some new-fangled machine like Phoenice's fire tubes make one in a thousand of their wavering darts find the life; and so, though the general attacking loses his hundreds, the defenders also are not without their dead.

The slaughter, as it turned out, had been prodigious. As fast as the stormers came up, the priests who held the lowest gate remaining to us rained down great rocks upon them till the narrow alley of the stair was paved with their writhing dead. But Phoenice stood on a spur of the rock below them urging on the charges, and with an insane valor company after company marched up to hurl themselves hopelessly against the defenses. They had no machines to batter the massive gates, and their attack was as pathetically useless as that of a child who hammers against a wall with an orange; and meanwhile the terrible stones from above mowed them down remorselessly.

Company after company of the troops marched into this terrible death trap, and not a man of all of them ever came back. Nor was it Phoenice's policy that they should do so. In her lust for this final conquest, she was minded to pour out troops till she had filled up the passes with the slain, so that at last she might march on to a level fight over the bridge of their poor bodies. It was no part of Phoenice's mood ever to count the cost. She set down the object which was to be gained, and it was her policy that the people of Atlantis were there to gain it for her.

Two gates then had she carried in this dreadful fashion, slaughtering those priests that stood behind them who had not been already shot down. And here I came down from above to take my share in the fight. There was no trumpet to announce my coming, no herald to proclaim my quality, but the priests as a sheer custom picked up "Deucalion!" as a battle cry; and some shouted that, with a king to lead, there would be no further ground lost.

It was clear that the name carried to the other side and bore weight with it. A company of poor, doomed wretches who were hurrying up stopped in their charge. The word "Deucalion!" was banded round and handed back down the line. I thought, with some grim satisfaction, that here was evidence I was not completely forgotten in the land.

There came shouts to them from behind to carry on their advance; but they did not budge; and presently a glittering officer panted up, and commenced to strike right and left among them with his sword. From where I stood on the high rampart above the gate I could see him plainly and recognized him at once.

"It matters not what they use for their battle cry," he was shouting. "You have the orders of your divine empress, and that is enough. You should be proud to die for her wish, you cowards. And if you do not obey, you will die afterwards under the instruments of the tormentors, very painfully. As for Deucalion, he is dead any time these nine years."

"There it seems you lie, my Lord Tatho!" I shouted down to him.

He started and looked up at me. "So you are there in real truth, then? Well, old comrade, I am sorry. But it is too late to make a composition now. You are on the side of these mangy priests, and the empress has made an edict that they are to be routed out, and I am her most obedient servant."

"You used to be skillful of fence," I said, and indeed there was little enough to choose between us. "If it please you to stop this pitiful killing, make yourself the champion of your side, and I will stand for mine, and we will fight out this quarrel in some fair place, and bind our parties to the result."

"It would be a grand fight between us two, old friend, and I am glad with me to talk you of it. But I cannot pleasure you. I am general here under Phoenice, and she has given me the strongest orders not to permit myself. And besides, though you are a great man, Deucalion, you are not chief. You are not even one of the three."

"I am king."

Tatho laughed. "Few but yourself would say so, my lord."

"Few, truly, but what they are they are powerful. I was given the name for the first time yesterday, and as a first blow in the campaign there was some mischief done in the city. I was there myself, and saw how you took it."

"You were in Atlantis!"

"I went for Nais. She is on the mountain now, and to-morrow will be my queen. Tatho, as a priest to a priest, let me solemnly bring to your memory the infinite power you bite against on this Sacred Mountain. Your teaching has warned you of the weapons that are stored in the Ark of the Mysteries. If you persist in this attack, at the best you can merely lose; at the worst you can bring about a wreck over which even the high gods will shudder as they order it."

"You cannot scare us back now by words," said Tatho, doggedly. "And as for magic, it will be me by magic. Phoenice has found by her own cleverness as many powers as were ever stored up in the Ark of the Mysteries."

"Yet she looked on helplessly enough last night, when her royal pyramid was trundled into a rubbish heap. Zaemon had prophesied that this should be so, and for a witness, why, I myself stood closer to her than we two stand now, and saw her."

"I will own you took her by surprise somewhat there. I do not understand these matters myself; I was never more than one of the seven in the old days; and now, quite rightly, Phoenice keeps the knowledge of her magic to herself; but it seems time is needed when one magic is to be met by another."

"Well," I said, "I know little about the business either. I leave these matters now to those who are higher above me in the priesthood. Indeed, leaving a liking for Nais, it seems I am debarred from ever being given understanding about the highest of the high mysteries. So I content myself with being a soldier, and when the appointed day comes, I shall fall and kiss my mother the earth for the last time. You, so I am told, have ambition for longer life."

He nodded. "Phoenice has found the Great Secret, and I am to be the first that will share it with her. We shall be as gods upon the earth, seeing that death will be powerless to touch us. And the twin sons she has borne me will be made immortal also."

STORY WITHOUT AN END.

The Author Was Invented and Had to Be Choked Off by the Publisher.

Have you heard of my friend P., who used to write for the Stable Boys' Own? The publisher of that remarkable paper—I am not sure that it had an editor—offered P. a cent a word for a story of adventure, and P. agreed to write it in chapters, supplying them weekly till the tale had been told, relates the Independent. The chapters went to press as fast as they came. Presently the publisher became restive. People in this story were doing extraordinary things, and never getting anywhere. P. left them in the most awful plights whenever he wrote "To be continued in our next." At the sixtieth chapter he was no nearer a solution of the plot than he had been in the sixth. The publisher wrote to P., begging him to close the narrative as quickly as possible, but P. replied with another batch, which ended, like the others, with the heroine hanging over an abyss by the eyebrows and the villain holding her would-be rescuer by the throat against a tree a mile away and chortling with ghoulish glee. Every chapter ended like that, so there simply had to be another one to explain it, and get the suffering people out of trouble. The publisher did not dare to interfere. His customers would insist on the end of the story. P. was an inventive cuss, and he kept that story going till the publisher's hair turned white and he drew, under his cent-a-word contract, about $75 a week, and drank champagne. Violent threats at last obliged him to kill off most of his characters and write the long-delayed word, Finis.

Run Out of Chalk.

At a gathering of ministers at Manchester, England, it was agreed that each person present should tell a short story. Dr. Watson's assistant minister refused to contribute his quota because the story personally concerned the doctor. But Dr. Watson insisted, and at length the story was told thus: "I had a dream and was told that to go to Heaven I must go to a certain flight of stairs and chalk my way on each step as I went up. I was doing so when I saw the doctor coming down. I said: 'Doctor, man, you are going the wrong way. For what are you going down?' And the doctor answered lugubriously: 'More chalk!'"—Argonaut.

A FRIGHTFUL WRECK.

Passenger Train Derailed on the Southern Pacific Road.

Fifteen Persons Were Instantly Killed and 28 More or Less Injured—Several of the Victims Were Cremated.

San Antonio, Tex., March 8.—A broken rail caused a frightful wreck on the Southern Pacific railroad near Maxons Station, 25 miles west of Sanderson. From the latest accounts received here 15 people were killed outright and 28 more or less injured.

Among the latter are George Ollenbergh, of Lexington, Ky., hand crushed, and H. J. Todd, of Frankfort, Ky., bruised.

The ill-fated train left San Antonio two and a half hours late and at the time the accident occurred was running at a high rate of speed in order to make up time. The road at the point where the wreck occurred is in a rough country, the curves being sharp and the grades heavy. It was when rounding a curve that the train left the track, it is said, on account of a broken rail.

The hour was 3 a. m., 15 hours after the train had left San Antonio, showing that it was still behind time. All the passengers were asleep and the shock that followed was the first intimation they had of the danger.

The train was going at such a rate of speed that the tender and engine landed 75 feet from where they left the rails. Cars behind piled up against the engine, caught fire and all were consumed except the sleepers. A private car owned by Thomas Ryan, of Bay City, Mich., with his family aboard, was attached to the rear of the train, but it was pulled away before the fire reached it and no one in it was injured.

All the injured in the coaches stuck behind the express and baggage cars were cremated. The people in the sleepers were saved with the assistance of the uninjured passengers.

The wrecked train was the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio west-bound passenger No. 9, and consisted of an engine, mail car, baggage car, one coach, one chair car, three tourist's sleepers, one Pullman sleeper and one private car.

The mail car, the baggage car and coaches were piled together against the engine and were ablaze in a few seconds. It was impossible to move any of the coaches or the tourist cars as they were all off the rails, and they were soon consumed by the flames.

So soon as it was possible to get in communication with division headquarters relief trains with surgeons and physicians were started from El Paso, Del Rio and Sanderson, picking up along the line all the surgeons that could be found.

All of the injured who were in a condition to be moved were sent to El Paso, where they are receiving careful attention.

MAY EXTEND THE REGENCY.

Incapacity of King Alfonso to Exercise the Functions of a Sovereign.

London, March 8.—The Daily Mail Saturday morning published a letter from its Madrid correspondent that all the important Spanish newspapers are discussing the possible necessity of prolonging the regency, owing to the incapacity of King Alfonso to exercise the functions of the sovereign.

There is talk of forming a sort of a king's council, says the letter, to be composed of the queen regent, the president of the cortes, the archbishop of Toledo and the ex-president of the council of ministers.

Another version of the story is that the queen regent is to prolong her regency for five years in order to enable the king to complete his education by travel, etc.

Miss Roosevelt Goes to Cuba.

Washington, March 8.—It is believed Miss Alice Roosevelt's trip to Cuba Sunday has been substituted for the proposed visit to the coronation of King Edward. The president, it is said, feels that his daughter has been brought into enough prominence during the social gaities of the past season, and by reason of Prince Henry's visit.

Commandant Kritzinger's Punishment.

Berlin, March 8.—Extra editions of the evening newspapers here publish a report that Commandant Kritzinger, who was captured by Gen. French in December last, was, after being tried by court-martial, condemned to death, but that his sentence was commuted to banishment for life.

Leander Defeated Walthour.

Atlanta, Ga., March 8.—George Leander, of Chicago, defeated "Bobby" Walthour, of this city, in a motor-paced race of three five mile heats for a purse of $400 and 60 per cent. of the gate receipts, Leander winning the first and last heats. Five thousand people saw the race.

A Fine Wedding Present.

New York, March 8.—Payne Whitney, who was recently married in Washington to the daughter of Secretary of State Hay, is to have a fine residence in upper Fifth avenue to cost, plot and building, about $1,000,000, for a wedding present.

New Ambassador From England.

London, March 8.—The Yorkshire Post says it learns that Alfred Lyttleton is likely to succeed Lord Pauncefoot as British ambassador at Washington. Mr. Lyttleton is the liberal unionist member of parliament.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Women and Jewels.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. It is not a cure all but it is a certain cure for coughs, colds and all bronchial troubles. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at W. T. Brooks'. Get Green's Special Almanac.

HOME AND CHILD

Does your horse "feel his oats"? What a difference between the grain-fed and the grass-fed horse! The first strong and full of ginger, the second flabby, weak and tired out before he begins. The feeding makes the difference. Children are not alike either. One is rosy, bright-eyed, full of life and laughter, another is pale, weak and dull. The feeding again is responsible.

Sickly children need special feeding. They don't "feel their oats". Scott's Emulsion adds just the right richness to their diet. It is like grain to the horse. The child gets new appetite and strong digestion.

Scott's Emulsion is more than food. It is a strong medicine. It rouses up dull children, puts new flesh on thin ones and red blood into pale ones. It makes children grow. Scott's Emulsion makes ordinary food do its duty.

Brain Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aid digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at W. T. Brooks'. A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under The Sun."

All doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acids, cathartics and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack, open and bleed. The powerful acids need in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH by removing the cause, stopping the discharges, and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES" the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLD IN THE HEAD.

CATARRH when neglected often leads to CONSUMPTION — "SNUFFLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to the directions which accompany each package. "After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. For The Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years. Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills." —W. T. Brooks.

Parents' Responsibility Great

It is the right of every child to be well born, and to the parents it must look for health and happiness. How inconceivably great is the parents' responsibility, and how important that no taint of disease is left in the blood to be transmitted to the helpless child, entailing the most pitiable suffering, and marking its little body with offensive sores and eruptions, catarrh of the nose and throat, weak eyes, glandular swellings, brittle bones, white swelling and deformity.

How can parents look upon such little sufferers and not reproach themselves for bringing so much misery into the world? If you have any disease lurking in your system, how can you expect well developed, healthy children? Cleanse your own blood and build up your health, and you have not only enlarged your capacity for the enjoyment of the pleasures of life, but have discharged a duty all parents owe to posterity, and made mankind healthier and happier.

There is no remedy that so surely reaches deep-seated, stubborn blood troubles as S. S. S. It searches out even hereditary poisons, and removes every taint from the blood, and builds up the general health. If weaklings are growing up around you, right the wrong by putting them on a course of S. S. S. at once. It is a purely vegetable medicine, harmless in its effects, and can be taken by both old and young without fear of any bad results.

Write us about your case, and let our physicians advise and help you. This will cost you nothing, and we will also send our book on blood and skin diseases.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable. HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERNER, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion. About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely. I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever. I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and, to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERNER, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation. Examination and treatment free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost. INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.
